NORTH PLATTE — A North Platte woman has been charged with assault and other counts after being accused of using a stun gun on another woman during an argument.

Julie Bowman, 30, is with attempted second-degree assault, burglary and a weapons count.

Police say a woman reported that she and Bowman had been arguing on the phone Thursday before Bowman came to her house, broke in and brandished a knife. The woman said Bowman then dropped the knife, pulled out a Taser and stunned her with it.
