A man will go before a judge after Brockton police say he ran a stop sign and had a loaded gun and a taser.

Police were driving on Warren Ave. around 9:15 p.m. Friday when they saw a car blow by them.

They pulled the car over, and say they found the gun in the trunk and the taser in the man's waistband.

He's identified as Jason Ramos of New Hampshire.

Police say he has driver's licenses in that state and in Massachusetts, and both are expired.

Ramos also allegedly had an open container of alcohol in the car, but officers say he was not drunk.

Ramos is due in Brockton District Court on Monday.

About WATD-FM

WATD is one of those seemingly impossible ideas which actually worked and has now endured for over three full decades. The idea for the station in Marshfield emerged as the result of a prospecting trip Carol Ebert Perry and Edward Perry made in December of 1972.
